Content

Acknowledgements ................................................................. 7

Democratization and Security in Central and Eastern Europe and the Post-Soviet States .................................................. 9
by David Bosold and Christian Achrainer

The Advantages of Latitude: Estonia’s post-Communist Success Story ................................................................. 23
by Lucas Kello

Defending Democracy and the Atlantic Community? Central Europe Encounters Missile Defense ........................................... 55
by Nik Hynek and Vit Stritecky

Authoritarianism versus Democracy in Belarus: Does National Identity Matter? ......................................................... 77
by Hanna Vasilevich

Passive versus Active Leverage: The European Union’s Impact on the Democratization of Ukraine ........................................ 101
by Svitlana A. Kobzar

Colored Revolutions in the wider Black Sea Region and the Geopoliticization of Democracy .............................................. 125
by Vsevolod Samokhalov

Kosovo, Three Years After Between New Momentum and Uncertainties: Assessing the Threats and Challenges Facing the EU Mission ......................................................... 149
by Pascal Fendrich

The European Union’s Role in the Western Balkans and the South Caucasus: Potential Obstacles in its Support for Reform Processes ................................................................. 173
by Dominik Tolsdorf Ideologizing Democracy Promotion:
Georgia’s Impact on Post-Soviet Regional Security. ....................................193
by George Khelashvili

ENP and post-Soviet transition in the South Caucasus:
Linking Democracy and Security. .................................................................209
by Maria Raquel Freire and Licínia Simão

Beyond Democratic Theory: Exploring Authoritarian Liberalisms in Central Asia. ....................................................229
by Assel Rustemova

Drawbacks and Limitations of the U.S. Democracy Promotion in Kyrgyzstan. ..................................................249
by Zhanyl Bokonbaeva

Public Communication and the Effectiveness of Democracy Promotion in Central Asia. .........................................................267
by Alexander Wolters

Concluding Remarks: Are There any Lessons to Learn? ...............................293
by Petr Drulák